Nico 29464. A high-end Southwestern staple of Mount Pleasant, Red Drum has served the community for years. An inviting patio, great margaritas, fresh seafood, and a wood-fired oven keeps the restaurant a date night destination for many. 863 Houston Northcutt Blvd Mt. Pleasant, SC 29464. The servers are among the friendliest lot in the city, charming the TEENs and wielding everything from blowtorches (for the at-table Crème brûlée action) to comically large pepper grinders with self-effacing humor. As already noted, it feels like a family get together and that's not an easy ambience to create. Press Inquiries PR Contact: Deena Versanszki Phone: (843)-532-1630. A modern & lively French oyster bar serving wood-fired seafood from French Master Chef Nico Romo. 201 Coleman Blvd., Mt. Pleasant, South Carolina 29464, United States. The menu sets out its eclectic stall with maritime curiosities that you don't typically find in similar restaurants in town. Three types of caviar grace the raw bar options, as do periwinkles and octopus and the ominous Scotch Oyster Shooter. As for the oysters themselves, there's usually more than ten 'du jour' varieties available, chalked up on a board for all to see. A wood-fired oven serves up some delicious baked (in camembert) oysters, bacon clams and roasted fish, and the fish stew is as good as comfort food gets. The restaurant reaches out to families with menu options for smaller guests, and this in turn engenders an infectiously convivial atmosphere. It's predominantly casual attire, and lively chat thrives across the bar and tables so much that it almost feels like one large dinner party. 10 Spots to Fuel the Poke Craze in Charleston.
